

Lady Sintana.

"Would you dare walk into a Catholic church and address the madonna as a demon?" she screamed. "Get out of here."

As the cameramen made a hasty retreat, a Havenwood Wiccan pronounced, "That film shall not show."

Seminar participants filed back in for a lecture on "The Steps to Self-Mastery," by Komar, a Hindu fakir from Ohio who has mastered himself to the extent that he can be sandwiched between two beds of nails with six men on top.

Another witchmeet, a farewell circle, and the seminar was over.

A young drugstore manager from out west, who came to the seminar out of interest - after dabbling in hypnosis and pendulums, sat down in the lobby to rest.

What does he think about it all?

"I think it's given me reassurance that I can do more for myself than I do or have done."
